

The Unwatchables: A Catalogue of Cinematic Catastrophes

Introduction

This book is a celebration of the worst of the worst. It's a collection of the most laughable, cringe-worthy, and just plain awful movies ever made. From Ed Wood's Plan 9 from Outer Space to Tommy Wiseau's The Room, these are the films that make you wonder how they ever got made in the first place.

But even the worst movies can be entertaining in their own way. Sometimes it's fun to watch a film that's so bad it's good. These films are often so over-the-top and ridiculous that they become unintentionally hilarious. And sometimes, it's just fascinating to see how a film can go so wrong.

Whatever your reason for watching bad movies, this book has something for you. We've compiled a list of the 50 worst movies of all time, along with insightful and skewering commentary from our team of film experts. We've also included a chapter on the tackiest trends and beaten-to-death genres that have filled double bills for decades. And for those who really love bad movies, we've got a chapter on the "Baddest of the Bs" - those ultra-tacky, low-budget movies that have earned them everlasting distinction in the pantheon of schlock.

So sit back, relax, and enjoy the worst of the worst. Just don't say we didn't warn you.

In addition to rounding up the 50 worst movies of all time, this book also takes a look at the filmmakers who are responsible for these cinematic disasters. We'll learn about Ed Wood, the man who made Plan 9 from Outer Space, and Tommy Wiseau, the man behind The Room. We'll also meet Uwe Boll, the German director who has made a career out of making bad movies.

This book is a must-read for any fan of bad movies. It's a hilarious and informative look at the worst of the worst. So what are you waiting for? Dive in and enjoy the ride!

This book is intended for an American audience and is written in the English language.

Book Description

Prepare yourself for a cinematic journey into the realm of the unwatchable! The Unwatchables: A Catalogue of Cinematic Catastrophes is a no-holds-barred exploration of the worst movies ever made, guaranteed to leave you laughing, cringing, and questioning the very nature of cinema.

Our team of intrepid film experts has scoured the depths of cinematic history to bring you the ultimate guide to the most laughably bad, cringe-worthy, and just plain awful movies ever to grace the silver screen. From Ed Wood's legendary Plan 9 from Outer Space to Tommy Wiseau's cult classic The Room, we've got the worst of the worst covered.

But The Unwatchables: A Catalogue of Cinematic Catastrophes is more than just a list of bad movies. It's a celebration of the bizarre, the ridiculous, and the downright inexplicable. We'll take you behind the scenes of these cinematic disasters, uncovering the stories of the eccentric filmmakers, clueless actors, and misguided producers who brought them to life.

We'll also explore the cultural impact of these bad movies, from their role in the development of camp cinema to their enduring popularity as midnight movie favorites. And for those who truly love bad movies, we've got a special chapter dedicated to the "Baddest of the Bs" - those ultra-tacky, low-budget gems that have achieved a cult status all their own.

Whether you're a seasoned bad movie aficionado or a newcomer to the world of cinematic disasters, The Unwatchables: A Catalogue of Cinematic Catastrophes is the perfect guide for you. So sit back, relax, and enjoy the ride as we take you on a hilarious and informative journey through the worst of the worst.

This book is intended for an American audience and is written in the English language.

Chapter 1: The Hall of Shame

The Worst of the Worst

The Hall of Shame is a collection of the worst movies ever made. These are the films that make you question your sanity, your taste in movies, and your faith in humanity. They're so bad, they're good. Or maybe they're just so bad, they're bad. Either way, they're all worth watching at least once, just to see how bad they really are.

There are many contenders for the title of worst movie ever made. Some of the most popular choices include Ed Wood's Plan 9 from Outer Space, Tommy Wiseau's The Room, and Uwe Boll's House of the Dead. These films are all so bad, they've become cult classics. People love to watch them, even though they know they're terrible.

So what makes a movie so bad that it becomes good? It's hard to say. Sometimes it's the acting, which can be so bad that it's hilarious. Sometimes it's the plot, which can be so nonsensical that it's impossible to follow. And sometimes it's the special effects, which can be so cheesy that they're unintentionally funny.

Whatever the reason, bad movies can be a lot of fun to watch. They're a great way to kill an hour or two, and they can even be a bonding experience with friends. So next time you're looking for something to watch, don't be afraid to check out one of the many bad movies that are out there. You might just find yourself laughing so hard you cry.

Of course, not all bad movies are created equal. Some are so bad that they're actually unwatchable. These are the films that make you want to tear your hair out or gouge your eyes out. They're so bad, they're not even funny.

So what's the difference between a bad movie that's good and a bad movie that's just bad? It's all in the execution. A bad movie that's good is one that's so bad it's funny. It's a film that you can laugh at, even though you know it's terrible. A bad movie that's just bad is one that's so bad it's not even funny. It's a film that you can't even laugh at, because it's just too painful to watch.

If you're looking for a good bad movie, I recommend checking out one of the films on our list of the 50 worst movies of all time. These are films that are so bad, they're actually good. They're the perfect way to kill an hour or two, and they're sure to give you a good laugh.

Chapter 1: The Hall of Shame

The Films That Make You Question Humanity

Some movies are so bad that they make you question your faith in humanity. These films are often so offensive, so depraved, and so morally bankrupt that they leave you wondering how anyone could have possibly thought they were a good idea.

One such film is "The Human Centipede." This 2009 horror film tells the story of a German doctor who kidnaps three tourists and surgically connects them mouth-to-anus, creating a "human centipede." The film is relentlessly graphic and disturbing, and it features scenes of extreme violence, torture, and degradation. It's a film that is sure to leave you feeling sick to your stomach.

Another film that makes you question humanity is "A Serbian Film." This 2010 Serbian horror film is one of the most controversial films ever made. The film tells the story of a former porn star who is forced to participate in a series of increasingly depraved and violent acts. The film is so graphic and disturbing that it was banned in several countries.

These are just two examples of films that make you question humanity. There are many other films out there that are just as bad, if not worse. These films are a reminder that there is a dark side to human nature, and that we are capable of some truly terrible things.

One of the most disturbing things about these films is that they often seem to be made with a sense of glee. The filmmakers seem to take delight in shocking and offending their audience. They seem to be trying to push the boundaries of what is acceptable, and they don't seem to care if they cross a line.

These films are a reminder that there is a dark side to human nature. They are a reminder that we are capable of some truly terrible things. They are a reminder that we need to be careful about what we allow ourselves to be entertained by.

If you are thinking about watching a film that makes you question humanity, I urge you to reconsider. These films are not worth your time. They will only leave you feeling sick to your stomach and wondering how anyone could have possibly thought they were a good idea.

Chapter 1: The Hall of Shame

Cinematic Train Wrecks: When Disasters Happen

What is it about train wrecks that fascinates us so much? Maybe it's the sheer spectacle of it all, the way that something so large and powerful can be brought down in such a dramatic fashion. Or maybe it's the human drama, the stories of the people who were on board and the lives that were lost. Whatever the reason, train wrecks have been a source of fascination for centuries.

And Hollywood has been there to capture that fascination on film. From the early days of cinema to the present day, there have been countless movies about train wrecks. Some of these movies are simply action-packed thrill rides, while others are more thoughtful and introspective, exploring the human cost of these disasters. But all of them share one thing in common: they're all fascinating to watch.

One of the earliest and most famous train wreck movies is The Great Train Robbery (1903). This short film, directed by Edwin S. Porter, tells the story of a group of outlaws who rob a train. The film was a huge success, and it helped to popularize the Western genre.

In the years that followed, Hollywood produced a number of other train wreck movies, including The General (1926), The Iron Horse (1924), and Union Pacific (1939). These films were all big-budget productions that featured spectacular train wreck scenes.

In the 1950s and 1960s, Hollywood began to produce more realistic train wreck movies. These films often focused on the human stories behind the disasters. One of the most famous examples of this type of film is The Train (1964), which tells the story of a group of French resistance fighters who try to stop a train carrying Nazi gold.

In recent years, there have been a number of big-budget train wreck movies, including Unstoppable (2010) and The Taking of Pelham 123 (2009). These films have all been critical and commercial successes, proving that the public's fascination with train wrecks is still alive and well.

Train wreck movies are a fascinating genre that offers something for everyone. Whether you're looking for action, suspense, or drama, you're sure to find a train wreck movie that you'll enjoy.

This extract presents the opening three sections of the first chapter.

Discover the complete 10 chapters and 50 sections by purchasing the book, now available in various formats.

Table of Contents

Chapter 1: The Hall of Shame - The Worst of the Worst - The Films That Make You Question Humanity - Cinematic Train Wrecks: When Disasters Happen - The Unintentional Comedies - The Films That Prove Money Can't Buy Good Taste

Chapter 2: The Bad Movie Hall of Fame - The Most Laughably Bad Films - The Films That Make You Cringe - The Movies That Are So Bad They're Good - The Films That Are Just Plain Awful - The Films That Make You Wonder Why They Were Ever Made

Chapter 3: The Auteur of Awful: Directors Who Can't Stop Making Bad Movies - Ed Wood: The King of Bad Movies - Tommy Wiseau: The Man Behind "The Room" - Uwe Boll: The German Master of Bad Cinema - Neil Breen: The Man Who Makes Movies Like No One Else - Rob Schneider: The Adam Sandler of Bad Movies

Chapter 4: The Worst Genres: A Look at the Most Maligned Movie Types - The Bad Sequel: When the Original Should Have Been Left Alone - The Bad Remake: When the Original Should Have Been Left Alone (Again) - The Bad Horror Movie: When Scares Turn into Laughs - The Bad Comedy: When Jokes Fall Flat - The Bad Action Movie: When Explosions and Car Chases Can't Save a Film

Chapter 5: The Good-Bad Movies: Films That Are So Bad, They're Good - The Room: The Citizen Kane of Bad Movies - Troll 2: The Film That's So Bad It's Good - Birdemic: Shock and Terror: The Film That's So Bad It's Hilarious - The Star Wars Holiday Special: The Film That's So Bad It's Legendary - Plan 9 from Outer Space: The Film That's So Bad It's a Classic

Chapter 6: The Bad Movie Awards: Celebrating the Worst of the Worst - The Razzies: The Oscars of Bad Movies - The Golden Raspberry Awards: Another Take on the Worst of the Worst - The Stinkers Bad Movie

Awards: For the Films That Really Stink - The Golden Schmoes Awards: The People's Choice for Bad Movies - The Bad Movie Hall of Shame: A Collection of the Worst Films Ever Made

Chapter 7: The Films That Time Forgot: Bad Movies That Deserve a Second Chance - Plan 9 from Outer Space: A Film So Bad It's Good - Birdemic: Shock and Terror: A Film So Bad It's Hilarious - The Star Wars Holiday Special: A Film So Bad It's Legendary - Troll 2: A Film So Bad It's Good - The Room: A Film So Bad It's Good

Chapter 8: The Films That Never Should Have Been Made: A Look at the Most Unnecessary Sequels and Remakes - The Star Wars Prequels: A Case Study in How to Ruin a Franchise - The Matrix Sequels: When a Good Thing Goes Bad - The Terminator Sequels: From Classic to Catastrophe - The Alien Sequels: A Franchise That Lost Its Way - The Predator Sequels: When a Franchise Becomes a Joke

Chapter 9: The Films That Made Us Question Our Taste in Movies: A Look at the Films That We Loved When We Were Young, But Now We're Not So Sure -
The Goonies: A Film That Doesn't Hold Up - E.T. the Extra-Terrestrial: A Film That's Too Saccharine - Back to the Future: A Film That's Dated - The Breakfast Club: A Film That's Too Preachy - The Princess Bride: A Film That's Too Quirky

Chapter 10: The Films That We Can't Help But Love: A Look at the Films That Are So Bad, They're Good -
The Room: A Film So Bad It's Good - Troll 2: A Film So Bad It's Good - Birdemic: Shock and Terror: A Film So Bad It's Good - Plan 9 from Outer Space: A Film So Bad It's Good - The Star Wars Holiday Special: A Film So Bad It's Good

This extract presents the opening three sections of the first chapter.

Discover the complete 10 chapters and 50 sections by purchasing the book, now available in various formats.